Article XI. Remediation of Methamphetamine Labs

Sec. 12-300. Legislative Intent.

The contamination present in former methamphetamine labs can affect soil, ground water, air, furniture, and structure materials, such as flooring, vents, and walls. Many of the contaminants present during the methamphetamine manufacturing process can be harmful if humans or pets are exposed to them. The contaminants can cause health problems, including headaches, nausea, dizziness, and skin and eye irritation and burns. Short-term exposures to high concentrations of some of these chemicals are common to first responders, such as fire departments or law enforcement officers first entering a lab. These exposures may cause severe health problems including lung damage and chemical burns to the body. This Article is intended to provide the regulations deemed necessary to protect the public from the serious public health threats posed by methamphetamine residues.

Sec. 12-301. Identification of public health threat, testing, remediation.

THE VILLAGE CITY CODE

- a) Any property or premises located in the City shall be considered a potential threat to public health when chemicals and equipment used in the production of methamphetamines have been seized by a local, state, or federal law enforcement agency on the property.
- b) The property owner of any such property shall take appropriate steps to detect and remove chemical residues left by the production of methamphetamines, including but not limited to the following:
 - 1) Testing: After law enforcement agencies have completed their investigation and hazardous materials cleanup of the subject property, the owner of said property shall be responsible for engaging the services of a qualified environmental testing company to determine if harmful levels of contamination remain on the property. The environmental testing company selected shall be subject to the approval by the City.
 - 2) Contamination Limits: The property owner shall perform cleanup of the property as provided below if tests performed by said environmental testing company detect on said property contamination levels of more than five micrograms of methamphetamine residue per square foot.
 - 3) Remediation: Upon a finding that more than five micrograms of methamphetamine residue are present on said property, the property owner shall be responsible for the following:
 - i. Air out the structure – suitably ventilate the property for several days before cleaning. The property owner shall open all the building's windows and set up exhaust fans to circulate air out of the house. During this time, the property shall remain off limits unless it is necessary to make short visits to the property. After the initial airing out, the property owner shall maintain good ventilation throughout the property's cleanup.
 - ii. Contamination removal and disposal:
 - a) Remove from the property all surfaces that are visibly contaminated, discolored or stained and dispose of them in an approved landfill.

 - d) If a surface has visible contamination or staining, completely remove and replace that surface section. This could include removal and replacement of wallboard, floor coverings, and counters. If this is not possible, intensive cleaning, followed by the application of a physical barrier such as paint or epoxy shall be required.
 - e) Replace all of the air filters in the ventilation system and/or heating and cooling system; remove and clean vents, clean the surfaces near system inlets and outlets, and clean the ventilation system's ductwork in order to ensure that vapors and residues are properly removed from these areas.
 - f) If a strong chemical odor is coming from household plumbing, contact a plumbing contractor for professional drain/pipe cleaning assistance.
 - g) Surfaces in areas where contamination was found or suspected shall be cleaned and painted when possible so as to provide a barrier between the contamination and anyone who may come in contact with those surfaces.
- 4) Certification. Prior to obtaining an occupancy permit for any property considered to be a potential threat to public health as provided herein, the property owner shall provide the City with proper evidence and documentation that methamphetamine residues on said property do not exceed five micrograms per square foot.
